

Shannon Sankstone is the Marketing Research Analyst at Quarles & Brady in Chicago. She is responsible for the firm's competitive intelligence and marketing research function, which is integrated into the Knowledge Management, Marketing and Finance departments. She is on the editorial board of directors for Marketing the Law Firm, for which she authors the column, Law Firm Intelligence. She has also published in the LMA's Strategies. An active member of the Legal Marketing Association, she was a member of the Research Committee and surveyed the LMA membership on its education preferences.